V.F.W. Will Honor Mrs. Carney and Local Rescue Sqd.

Sequoit Veterans of Foreign Wars will present a plaque of tribute to the Antioch Rescue Squad and Mrs. Virginia Carney, local telephone operator who at 1:30 a. m. Jan. 27 teamed up in saving the lives of three children of the Charles Cermak family.

Mrs. Carney completed a call from Charlene Cermak to her parents at Smart's Country house after the child had become overcome from oil fumes from a clogged pipe, and then notified the Rescue Squad. They found the children, a dog and a cat, all unconscious, but were able to revive them.

The Antioch Veterans of Foreign Wars have long considered giving the Rescue Squad some kind of citation or plaque honoring it for the unselfish work in community service. Members of the squad willingly give their services any time during the day or night in emergencies of the area, with absolutely no remuneration, and have been doing it for years. In the opinion of the V. F. W. Antioch is indeed lucky to have such a group of men working in its behalf.

In the case of Mrs. Carney, the V. F. W. is especially interested in paying tribute to an individual who in an emergency can think coolly and clearly and then make the right moves to result in the saving of lives.

The presentations will take place at 9 p. m., Saturday evening, Feb. 21, at the Veterans' Club, Loon lake, where the V. F. W. is holding a party celebrating the fifty-fourth anniversary of their founding. The party is open to the public and all friends of the Rescue squad, Mrs. Carney and the V. F. W. are invited to attend.

The plaques will read:—"A tribute to Virginia Carney, whose quick thinking and resourcefulness on this 27th day of January, 1953, saved the lives of three children," and "A tribute to the Antioch Rescue Squad, whose readiness in any emergency saved the lives of three children on this 27th day of Jan. 1953."

Mrs. Abt was the widow of the late Robert C. Abt who was in the real estate business in Antioch for 18 years. She was born April 6, 1886 in Monticello, Minn., and lived in Chicago before coming to Antioch in 1922.

Surviving are a son, R. Ward Abt of Oak Park; a daughter, Jean of Antioch; a sister, Mrs. Grace St. Jean of Maywood; a brother, E. V. Ward of Harrisburg, Pa., and a grandson.

Some Benefits Paid Veterans Are Legal Deductions from Tax

Certain cash benefits paid to veterans, for their dependents or survivors during 1952 are exempt from federal taxation, the Illinois Veterans Commission pointed out today.

With the filing date for income tax returns approaching, the commission is receiving numerous inquiries concerning the status of benefits for taxing purposes.

Many of the benefits paid by the federal and state government are exempt by statute while others are exempt only under certain conditions.

Those veterans in doubt should contact the "Service officer of the IVC, 228 N. Genesee st., Waukegan. The office is open daily between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. daily and on Saturday until 12.

Mrs. Burt Anderson entertained for her husband and daughter, Roberta, on Sunday with a turkey dinner, the occasion being the celebration of their birthday anniversaries. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blair of Wilmet, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Polsgrove and daughter, Diane, of Indian point.

Students to Enter U.N. Essay Contest

The twenty-seventh annual United Nations National Student contest will be held this year on March 28.

The contest is open to all high school students. An interest in the work is being created by the social studies department of the Antioch Township High school. Thus far, Mrs. Tulumello, the instructor, states that there are five students who have enrolled for study on the United Nations. There is a possibility of there being two or three more, so the names of the students will not be released until a later date.

The purpose of this contest is to increase an interest among high school students in the work of the United Nations and to develop an appreciation for a world organization and what it might do for the world.

The contest offers as rewards to the winners a national prize which will be a trip to Europe or $500 and a second prize of $100. Also National scholarships for which students placing among the top 18 contestants in the country will be eligible for scholarships offered by a number of leading colleges. Local prizes will be given by individual states. Those of Illinois include $25, $15, and $10 prizes.

Rep. Church Assigned To 2 Major Committees

Marguerite Stitt Church (R. 13th District of Illinois) recently re-elected to Congress by a plurality of 107,628 over her Democratic opponent, has been assigned to the powerful House Foreign Affairs Committee. This committee is charged with the scrutiny and development of the foreign policy, now so signally important both to our prospects of peace and to every facet of our domestic economy and national well-being.

Mrs. Church also retains her membership on the important committee on Government Operations (until recently called the Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments). She will serve as ranking member of the Subcommittee on Executive and Legislative Re-organization, which has jurisdiction over all presidential plans and legislation to reorganize the Departments and Agencies in the Executive Branch of government. She has likewise been appointed to the Military Operations Subcommittee—whose jurisdiction covers all activities (other than combat) of the army, navy, air force and the marine corps, with surveillance over the expenditures of defense appropriations with particular regard to the elimination of injudicious and extravagant spending of defense appropriations—and more important—of manpower.

Home Bureau Unit to Hear Report on State Meeting on Feb. 25

The Antioch Home Bureau unit will hold a regular meeting Wednesday, Feb. 25, at the home of Mrs. Lester Osmond. A 1:30 o'clock luncheon will be served by the hostesses, Mrs. Alma Bobzien, Mrs. Harry Lubeno and Mrs. Arthur Laursen.

The lesson, "Your Voice Is You," will be given by a telephone company representative.

Delegates Mrs. Louis Paiml, Mrs. Arthur Herman and Mrs. James Van Cura returned home last week from the University of Illinois, where they attended the Farm and Home week. From all indications the representatives had an enjoyable and constructive trip. Their full reports will be given at Wednesday's meeting.

New Television Plant For Zion Will Begin Production on Apr. 1

Production in the Zion, Ill., plant recently acquired by Warwick Manufacturing Corporation from Marshall Field & Co., "will start on a limited basis within the next six weeks according to present plans," it was announced today by John S. Holmes, Warwick president. "How close we can come to our target date of April 21 for starting certain pilot lines will depend on a large number of factors including delivery dates of specially designed equipment, completion of extensive alterations and remodeling that are now going on, and the availability and training of local personnel."

The plant was purchased last December by Warwick for the purpose of converting it to a modern television set manufacturing plant.

Sequoits Insure Conference Title In Friday's Game

Triumph in Hard-fought Game Against Palatine

Antioch high school fighting Sequoit basketball team virtually sewed up the conference championship Friday night with a win over the powerful Palatine high school team. The Sequoits are out in front by a game, and even granting that they should lose the two remaining games of the schedule, they will wind up either as champs or as co-champs.

Palatine, next nearest in second place, has but one game to play. Remaining for Antioch to meet are Grayslake and Grant, neither of whom are likely to give Coach Scott's steamroller much trouble. Both games will be played on the Antioch floor, a decided added advantage.

Low Scores Friday

Friday night's game with Palatine was a defensive battle with the final score resting at 37-36. The game went into overtime when Palatine tied the score in the last few seconds of play. The ability of the local squad to rally and "turn on the heat" when needed stood them in good stead, and they managed to gain the one point lead needed in the overtime period.

Excellent defensive play by Bruce Stahmer and Jerry Quilty were outstanding in that they held Paul Schragge, high scoring ace for Palatine and high point man for the conference, to 14 points for the game, and did not allow him to score in the fourth period when the going got rough.

Score by quarters shows that the Sequoits came from behind to gradually even up the score and forge ahead in the last few seconds. First quarter totals were 10-7; second quarter, 17-16; third quarter, 24-24 and the final quarter 33-33. In the overtime period Antioch scored 4 points while the Palatine team came up with 3.

Ben Floyd again topped the scoring for Antioch with 15, and also scored all four points for Antioch in the overtime; Bruce Stahmer managed to score 8 points along with his duties in stopping Schragge. Bob Floyd scored 8 points and Jerry Quilty accounted for 5.

A large attendance at the game from Antioch filled the gym at Palatine, and many of the Palatine folks were forced to stand. Four busloads of students from Antioch did (continued on page 8)

Lee Fleming, Zion Mayor, To Speak at Lions Meeting Mon.

Lions of Antioch will hear a talk by Lee Fleming, mayor of Zion, Ill., when they meet on Monday evening March 23 at Smart's Country House. Mayor Fleming is by reputation, a very interesting talker and has wide experience as an administrator.

10th Dist. Auxiliary Of American Legion Meets at Win. Harbor

The quarterly meeting of the Tenth District American Legion Auxiliary took place in the Legion Home in Winthrop Harbor Wednesday evening, Feb. 11 with a very good turnout for a midwinter meeting.

Interesting reports were read by the chairmen. Plans were made for the annual spring party, of which Mrs. Robert Kapheim is the chairman. This affair is to take place at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, April 22 in the Highland Park Legion home. A dessert luncheon and style show will precede the card party.

The Americanism chairman, Mrs. William Whyte reported that most of the units did some work and seven are sponsoring essay contests. Mrs. Whyte introduced the speaker for the evening, the Rev. Mr. Glasser, who is a former chaplain of the Marines. He gave an inspiring talk on the importance of religion in modern life and told how true church unity, as practiced by the service men and women during the war could help to combat communism.

Mrs. Charles Prizer urged that unit chairman write for a copy of the new Legion sponsored Universal Military Training bill.

Schroeder Shoe Shop Burns; Woman Saved from Apartment Above

Damage Also Done to Olson Stock, Carey Shop, and Masonic Temple

The shoe store and repair shop of Charles Schroeder in the Osmond building at 887 Main st. was destroyed by fire early yesterday and serious damage was done by smoke and water to the Schroeder and Charles A. Jorgensen, Jr. apartments on the second floor.

Also badly damaged by smoke and water was the A. Harold Olsen furniture store stock in the basement of the Osmond building and slightly damaged by smoke were the contents of the Masonic temple above the furniture store, and the Carey Electric Co. shop.

Cause of the blaze is unknown. It was discovered about 8:15 by passersby who notified employees of the Irving Carey Electrical shop.

Mrs. Jorgensen was trapped in her apartment above the shoe shop and her predicament was noticed by persons in the street.

While J. J. Cahill of the electric company turned in the fire alarm, Harold Walsh, Irving Flint and George Nelson, employees, got a ladder and placed it at the front of the burning building.

Save Woman Through Window

Art Bertolani of Art's Sport shop, driving a Lahti oil truck, stopped and hastily climbed the ladder to the second story window and with his fists smashed two storm and interior windows in effecting an exit for Mrs. Jorgensen who was fast being overcome by smoke. He pulled her out to the ledge and had hold of her robe when she slipped and fell. Walsh, Flint and Nelson caught her and helped carry her to an apartment across the street where she was placed under the care of a physician.

By that time the Antioch Fire department arrived and began its battle with the flames. Because the fire was dangerous to the business section the Lake Villa department was called for standby duty.

Firemen Did Good Work

The firemen did good work and soon had the blaze under control (continued on page 8)

Three File For H. S. Board Of Education Jobs

With little more than a month left in which to file petitions of nomination for the Antioch High school board of education, to be held on Saturday, April 11, three candidates have already filed petitions of nomination.

Louis Biel, secretary of the board of education said today that petitions of Walter Hills, present member of the board, up for re-election, Roman Vos, and Virginia Herbst, Lake Villa, have been filed.

Biel said that more candidates are expected, since he has had several requests for petition blanks and added that blanks will be available.

Last year's election hit an all-time high in the number of votes cast, when 1300 residents went to the polls on a rainy day, and it is expected that a considerable number will cast ballots for the coming election.

Satisfied Consumers

Charles F. Phillips, president of Bates College, recently spoke before the Boston Conference on Distribution. The title of his talk was "The Consumer is King." He described the great changes that have come over retailing, and of the efforts that have been made to better please the public. Then he said, "The actions of consumers in recent years indicate that, in general, they are quite satisfied with the retailers' efforts to serve them—to treat them as king. If they were not, I think we might find them rushing to join consumer's cooperatives. Cooperatives have attracted so few members that they account for less than one per cent of our retail sales, although they do 24 per cent of Sweden's retailing, 35 per cent of Finland's and 50 per cent of Iceland's."

He went on to point out that cooperatives cannot operate for less than other kinds of retailing, cannot buy for less, and cannot pursue more aggressive or attractive merchandising policies.

The American public has every reason to be well satisfied with the kind of retailing service it receives. We have big stores, little stores, chain stores, independent stores, specialty stores, general merchandise stores, and all the rest. They provide day-in-day-out competition for business. Prices are held to the lowest possible levels. Profits per sale are small—so small that, in most cases, the buyer would hardly notice the difference if the retailer earned none at all.

This is mass distribution in action. Its contribution to our standard of living as a people can hardly be exaggerated.

The Ghost of the Past

"We expect to be regulated industry," says the president of a major railroad. "But we think that regulation should be only that which is sufficient to protect the public interest and no more. We are firmly convinced that the philosophy of government regulation which has dominated our industry is working against the national interest. . . . Ours is a competitive industry—a huge segment of our national community representing a net investment of $25,500,000,000, that is not free."

He then went on to show that the times have changed but the rules haven't—the ghost of the past lives on in the type of regulation imposed on the railroads. At the time the Interstate Commerce commission was established the rails had a virtual monopoly of commercial land transportation. The monopoly vanished long ago, and today the railroads are in direct competition with trucks, airplanes, busses, pipelines, waterways—and even the family automobile. But regulatory laws and policies and interpretations that were designed to deal with a monopoly that no longer exists are still in force.

The result is that the railroads cannot promptly adjust their prices, either up or down, to compensate for changes in operating costs or to meet competition. They cannot compete for business on a basis of equality with other carriers of passengers and freight. They cannot even abandon services for which there is no longer any public demand or necessity and which are operated at heavy losses.

The railroads are the one absolutely essential form of commercial transportation. The public interest, entirely aside from the railroads' interest, demands that they be treated fairly.

Two Significant Exceptions

Socialistically minded prophets have long been forecasting that this country will suffer very serious electric-power shortages unless the federal government goes into the power business on a whole-hog basis, spending untold billions of the taxpayers' money for that purpose.

Last year the power industry's sales of electricity hit a new high of 343,000,000,000 kilowatt hours—nearly double the figure of only six years before. Despite that record consumption, the gross margin between generating capability and peak demand for the country as a whole was about 12 per cent—in other words, 12 per cent more power could have been produced had there been any market for it. This is the result of the multi-billion dollar expansion and improvement program the business-managed utilities have been carrying on since World War II ended—a program which is paid for entirely with private funds and savings, and which is creating rich new sources of taxation for every level of government, from Washington down to the villages.

During the entire year an adequate supply of power was available in all sections of the United States—with two significant exceptions. One exception was in the Pacific Northwest, where the federal government's tax-free Bonneville Power Administration is top dog. The second exception was in the Tennessee Valley area, where tax-free TVA has a political monopoly of the electric business.

Does this make it look as if socialism is the way to get abundance—or to purchase anything except more bills for the weary taxpayer to meet?

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

Like old Mr. Father Time limps out with his battered scythe, bent back and over-all decrepit-like, forlorn look—as the artists picture him—we now have an actual scene. I fetch this matter up now as a warning—advance notice, and my good turn—to the vigorous, prancing, confident new outfit taking over in its task of clearing out and away the misfits, the useless, expensive and burdensome fiddlers that have been piled, layer on layer, on the guileless. And to elaborate on "guileless," it is just a degree or 2 more polite than "sucker." We been led down a devious path—we been babes-in-the-woods. We thought we were going elsewhere than where we did go—and are.

And now, like Mr. Washington Irving's Rip Van Winkle, we awake with a start, we find a rusty, broken government in our hand. But at this late date we have lowered the boom on the creaky Govt. we once thought could do no wrong.

Are you driving at something, says Henry. Don't get petulant, I says. This warning and notice is to the New Crowd—it, too, can limp out forlorn and tattered if it figures everything is in the bag, perpetual. Oh, say Henry. And furthermore, I says, it better show some speed—we been around more—not as simple now as we once were.

Yours with the low-down,
JO SERRA

WILMOT

The dedication program of the new addition to the Wilmot High school delighted 1200 persons Sunday, Feb. 15, beginning at 12:30 p. m. Open house was held from 12:30 to 5 p. m. Under the direction of Angelo La Valle the Wilmot High School band rendered selections from 1:45 to 2:00. Martin M. Schnurr, principal, presided over the dedication ceremony. The Rev. Harold O'Conner presented the invocation preceded by the presentation of the flag by the Scott-Semrau Post No. 361, Twin Lakes Post No. 544 and the Schultz-Hahn Post No. 293.

Architect Carl Schubert of Boyum, Schubert and Sorenson, La-Crosse, Wis., complimented the Board on Cooperation and said that Wilmot has one of the finest schools in the state.

An added attraction to the program was that out of the 7 members of the first graduating class of Wilmot in 1905, five were present. They were: Rosa Buffon, Grace Carey, Helen Dohy, Laura Loftus Ferry, and Henry Blim. Mr. Blim, the "Best Looking Boy" in the class gave an extemporaneous speech. He commented on the first two room high school where education wasn't excelled. His advice to the students of today was "You must prepare for the opportunity in life that is going to be yours." Mr. Roy Ihlenfeldt, Secondary School Supervisor, carried on the history of 32 years ago and that the children should realize what they have done for them here in school so far.

There were many beautiful baskets of flowers throughout the building which were donated and many people came back that had graduated from here.

The benediction was given by the Rev. Duane Hulse, and the National Anthem was played by the high school band.

Your Income Tax

By Ernest J. Sauber
Director of Internal Revenue
First District of Illinois
What's Deductible?

The question of "what's deductible?" is of great interest to the taxpayer. A knowledge of allowable deductions will not only help the taxpayer file a correct return, but also provide the opportunity to reduce the final tax liability.

This article deals with (1) Medical expenses, (2) Casualty losses, (3) Personal and other expenses, and (4) Automobile expenses.

Medical and Dental Expenses

If a taxpayer or his spouse has attained the age of sixty-five, the five per cent limitation on the deduction of medical and dental expenses no longer applies. The taxpayer is entitled to deduct the entire amount of medical and dental expenses incurred for himself and/or his spouse, subject only to the maximum allowance, or $1,250 for each exemption. It should be pointed out, however, that medical expenses incurred for the care of the taxpayer's dependents are still limited to the excess of such expenditures over five per cent of his adjusted gross income.

Casualty Losses and Thefts

Losses are allowed for property damaged or destroyed by natural forces such as freezing, fire, storms, floods, earthquakes, tornadoes or collision or some other type of casualty not caused by the willful negligence of the taxpayer. These losses may be either on one's personal property or on income-producing property like a building or a farm.

The amount of loss is determined by the difference in the fair market value of the property just before the casualty and the fair market value immediately after the casualty. However, the loss may not exceed the actual cost of the property involved. Any insurance received as reimbursement must be offset against the loss of the property to determine the amount of net deduction. The amount may never exceed the adjusted basis of the property—that is, the cost, less the depreciation allowed or allowable plus all betterments and improvements. Depreciation is allowed on business property and property held for the production of income. However, depreciation is not allowed on non-business property not held for the production of income, although such property is also subject to wear and tear.

It must be determined in all cases that the loss was not due to any willful negligence on the part of the taxpayer and that the casualty was entirely beyond his control.

The loss of property sustained through theft or burglary may be claimed if evidence is submitted, but misplacement or careless leaving of an article or negligence in watching something like a purse or suitcase does not qualify the loss as deductible.

You may not claim a loss on someone else's property, even though it was in your possession at the time of the casualty, and you may not deduct any damages paid for another individual's property or person.

Personal Expenses

Each year after the filing period, it is necessary for the Director to recompute the tax liability of individuals who claim deductions which are not allowable because they are entirely personal, and as a result the taxpayer is required to pay interest as well as the additional tax because of their disallowance. A partial list of items which you MAY NOT claim as expense is given for your study:

1. Funeral and burial expenses.
2. Cost of burial plot or vault.
3. Wages paid to servants, nursemaids and baby sitters, even though such expense is incurred because it is necessary for you to go to work.
4. Carfare or train fare paid in going to and from work.
5. Expense of maintaining your automobile used in going to and from work, or for your personal and family use.
6. Cost of your lunches or suppers while working.
7. Carrying charges on purchases. Only part of what you pay when you are buying "on time" is interest, which must be stated separately to be deductible.

Other Deductions

Given below is a partial list of items which are deductible on a Federal income tax return by individuals electing to itemize their deductions:

1. Dues and assessments for professional or business organizations.
2. Professional magazines and journals.
3. Fees paid to an employment agency for obtaining a position for you, but not any expense you pay in seeking a position.
4. Bond premium you pay as a bonded employee.
5. Small tools which have a life of one year or less. (If you are required by your employer to furnish them.)
6. Safety deposit box fees, if the box is rented to protect income producing securities.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

ACROSS THE YEARS

"The name of American, which belongs to you in your national capacity, must always exalt the just pride of patriotism... You have, in a common cause, fought and triumphed together; the independence and liberty you possess are the work of joint councils, and joint efforts—of common dangers, sufferings, and successes."
—George Washington—Farewell address.

Automobile Expenses

Automobile expense is deductible only when it is an ordinary and necessary business expense in the conduct of your duties for your employer. The mere fact that you prefer to use your personal automobile is going to and from work instead of the street car or bus does not change the fact that it is a personal expense and as such is not deductible for income tax purposes. But if you are required to use your car to carry out your duties for your employer, you may deduct that portion of the expense attributable to actual travel for business.

The following automobile expenses are deductible if incurred in the pursuit of a trade or business and must be prorated according to the percentage of time used for business purposes:

1. Garage rent and parking fees.
2. Gasoline and oil.
3. Repairs and minor replacements.
4. Depreciation prorated over the life of the car.
5. Insurance.
6. License fees.
7. Minor equipment for car.
8. Washing and simonizing.

An itemized account of such expenses must be attached to the form. Since the burden of proof is on the taxpayer, it is important that the taxpayer retain all his receipts so he can furnish them upon audit of his return.

The matter of uniforms and work clothes creates a great deal of discussion and often misunderstanding. In this article the specific requirements as well as special rulings will be discussed in order to help clarify questions taxpayers may have when they consider reporting them as deductible items.

Cost and Maintenance of Clothes

In general, the cost and maintenance of work clothes represents a personal expense which is NOT DEDUCTIBLE for income tax purposes. However, recent court decisions have allowed deductions for the cost and maintenance of uniforms for income tax purposes, if both of the following conditions are met:

1. If the uniforms are of a type specifically required as a condition of employment.
2. If they could not be adapted to general or continued use in place of ordinary clothing.

Essential Items

In cases where there are requirements for safety shoes, rubber or asbestos gloves, special rubber, asbestos or heavy leather aprons; rubber boots and coats and rubber or steel helmets, the taxpayer may claim the deduction, because these items are essential to the particular type of employment and are not suitable for ordinary street wear.

Overalls and coveralls are worn by laborers in the building trades and factories because they are cheaper than ordinary clothing and not because the employers require these particular types of clothing. Consideration must be given to the particular facts in each case. The fact that a uniform might be required as a condition of employment is not sufficient evidence to allow the deduction.

Servicemen's Uniforms:

Military and naval uniforms are not deductible because, although the individual must wear a certain type of uniform, it is adaptable to general wear and takes the place of regular clothing. The cost of military insignia, gold braid, etc., can be deducted, however, because these items are both required and do not take the place of regular clothing.

The cost of clothing worn by merchant seamen is not deductible because it does not meet both tests. They are not required to wear any particular type of uniform. It is coincidental that they wear similar clothes, because they found certain types more practical. Cowboys, lumberjacks, coal miners and others wear certain types of clothing because they have found them most practical, but there is no specific requirements that they wear those types.

Employer Requirements

The Tax Court denied the deduction to a taxicab driver because the uniform he wore was not required by the company. For the same reason the uniforms of waitresses, nurses, butchers, and filling station attendants may not be deducted if not specifically required. It is essential that the uniform must be required by the employer AND the uniform would not be suitable for general wear. If both reasons apply to the use by the employee, the deduction may be claimed on Page 3 of Form 1040 if election is made to itemize deductions.

EVEN THE MUFFLER DOES THINGS TO THE POWER

World's newest
V8

BACK in the old days, any man who wanted real performance used a "cutout" on his car.

It was a device that by-passed the muffler—because mufflers have always cut down on usable power. But it made a lot of noise.

Muffling that noise—and still getting rid of exhaust gases as fast as they come from the cylinders—has stumped the automobile people for years.

Now, Buick engineers have racked up another "first."

They have come up with a muffler of supreme quiet and zero power loss—first time in history.

It is called a dynamic flow muffler. And it is one of many advances that make the great 1953 Buick Roadmaster even greater.

For this automobile—the greatest Buick in fifty great years—has a brilliant new V8 Engine that can turn up 188 hp. And every one of its horsepower can be delivered as usable power—since none is restricted in muffler passage.

As you would expect, there is more to this magnificent motorcar than power, great though it is.

There's a finer ride, better maneuverability, easier handling—now with Power Steering as standard equipment, and Power Brakes optional at extra cost.

And there's the amazing new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo bringing quieter, jet-fast getaway to complete and utter smoothness.

P.T.A. Hears Band and Talk by Petty

There was a good attendance Monday evening at the Antioch Grade School Parent-Teacher Association meeting at which the school band played and W. C. Petty, county superintendent of schools spoke.

Supt. Petty said it is too early yet to evaluate the work of the state legislature on school matters; that the assembly hasn't been in session long enough to accomplish much. He expects a revision in the state aid program and an amendment to the law which now necessitates a referendum to extend the school span over nine months.

He touched but lightly on the controversial federal aid idea. The band numbers were greatly appreciated by the crowd.

Members of V.F.W. Aux. Attend Meeting in Chicago

Mrs. Laura Swanson and Mrs. Ollie Hallway attended the Annual Patriotic Conference Saturday, Feb. 14 which was held at Hotel Sherman. It was sponsored by the Department of Illinois Ladies' Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

The morning session began at 9:30 in the Louis XVI room, Mabel Herbst, department president, presiding. The meeting opened with the Advance of Colors, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag led by Dolores Mullins. The National Anthem was sung led by Amelia Olsen, past president of the Auxiliary 1487. The invocation was given by Frances Warner, department chaplain.

To gain a better understanding of national and international affairs by bringing to our members and friends prominent speakers cognizant of conditions affecting the American way of life was the purpose of the meeting.

Major Marjorie C. Power, WAC staff adviser, fifth army of Chicago gave a very good talk on the importance of women to the armed forces.

Dr. Henry A. Szujewski, director of the cancer clinic, Holy Cross hospital, Chicago, spoke of the many problems of cancer confronting the entire nation and the great need of financial help to combat this most dreaded disease.

Victoria Wendel, Civil Defense chairman, department of Illinois, Ladies' Auxiliary V. F. W., gave a lengthy talk on the importance of Civil Defense. Telling the importance of knowing what to do and how to do it in case of an enemy attack.

Stanley Johnston, editorial promotion assistant of the Chicago Daily Tribune gave a very interesting talk about his experiences during World War II while stationed in England during the time of the blitz by the Germans. His talk was humorous as well as serious by bringing to our attention the dangers confronting us today by the fighting of communism all over the world.

Colonel Grenville Beardsley, attorney-at-law, Chicago, talked on the need for more vital citizenship and how we as individuals can help by insisting on putting the right people in office who will protect our rights as free people.

Luncheon was served in the Ball-Tabin room at 12:30, after which a great and inspiring talk was heard, given by Mrs. Lucille Vogeler, an American wife and mother who sought the release of her husband from the communists. She told of what little help she received from the State Department in gaining the release of Robert Vogeler. Due to her courage and persistence her goal was finally accomplished.

Also attending were representatives from the American Legion, D. A. V., Spanish War, Jewish War Veterans.

The program closed by singing God Bless America and the retiring of the colors.

About 1000 members and friends attended this session from all parts of Illinois.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
That the abundance of divine wisdom, intelligence, and understanding for man's individual use in the enjoyment of good health, sound morals and righteous judgment, will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 22. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be MIND.

The Golden Text is from Psalms (147:5) "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"And Solomon said . . . Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad . . . And God said unto him . . . Behold, I have done according to thy words; lo, I have given thee a wise and an understanding heart; so that there was none like thee before thee, neither after thee shall any arise like unto thee" (1 Kings 3:9, 11, 12).

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"The understanding that the Ego is Mind, and that there is but one Mind or intelligence, begins at once to destroy the errors of mortal sense and to supply the truth of immortal sense . . . In proportion as the belief disappears that life and intelligence are in or of matter, the immortal facts of being are seen, and their only idea or intelligence is in God" (pp. 218, 279).

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 6.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Psalm 46: 1-5.

Sincerity

SOME say an insincere person isn't what he seems to be. That is not quite true. An insincere person is what he seems to be, only not all the way through. He is what he seems to be, on Sundays, or part of the time, or when he's feeling just right; or perhaps he is what he seems to be, but only on the surface. The rest of the time, or underneath that surface, he is something quite different. Everybody likes sincere people, nobody wants to have much to do with the insincere.

Getting Down to Cases

Jesus, of course, demanded sincerity. "Jesus would rather be denied by a true man than confessed by a liar." He did not use the word "sincere" or "sincerity," but (as was his habit) he came down to cases. He first shows that a generous giver, and a praying man, may be insincere. When is a man all-the-way generous and when is he only top-layer generous? Jesus suggests that it isn't what we give, but why we give, that points up a test for sincerity. It is very doubtful whether Jesus meant to say that any one ever hired a trumpeter to toot for him when he dropped some money into the collection plate or wrote a check for the Red Cross. What he means to say is that when a man gives with the hope that his gift will attract attention and produce applause, he is not really generous. He doesn't have the recipient's interests at heart; he is thinking only, "How well people will think of me! Or again, that odd saying, 'Do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing' suggests that sometimes you are generous in order to please your favorite audience. You. You are generous in order to feel self-satisfied, your right hand (so to speak) brags about your left. The sincerely generous person is the only truly generous one; and the only sincerely generous person is the one who wants to give, not to be complimented, even by himself.

What Is Sincere Prayer?

Another concrete case that Jesus takes up is prayer. There is a story that once a minister was told after service: "Doctor, that was the most eloquent prayer ever delivered to a Boston audience." Jesus would say that a prayer delivered to an audience—Boston, Bombay or Barber Junction, no matter where—isn't a prayer, it's just a way of showing off. A certain professor of English used to quote famous authors in his public prayers: "As Shakespeare has said, O Lord . . . Thou rememberest what the poet Browning hath said . . . Now there's no use quoting poetry to the Lord; that's suited to a speech, not to a prayer. Of course Jesus did not mean that we are never to pray in the presence of others. He himself prayed in public on various occasions. Leading others in prayer is a rare gift and should be cultivated. But while prayer, sincere prayer, can be with others and for others, it should never be to others. Some preachers "beat the congregation over their heads with a prayer" as the saying is. Some deacons have been known to put long and dull prayer-meeting talks into the form of a prayer. One elder well-versed in Scripture used to go through the whole story of the Bible, in outline, every time he was called on for a prayer.

Sincerity in Devotion

Jesus points out where sincerity is most important of all: in our devotion to God. We cannot serve God and Mammon. God does not want part-time devotion. By serving God, Jesus means living by God's side, under God's orders. Serving Mammon means more than simply serving money—most Mammon-worshippers would deny that they "serve" money. It means living your life not as God would have you but in order to "get ahead," to make money, to stand well with people who have money. Serving God means living as Jesus lived, for others; serving Mammon means trying to be served by as many persons as possible. Success, in Mammon's terms, is measured in terms of how many people work for you; success in God's terms, is measured in terms of how much you have helped others. Sincere devotion to God must be devotion all life through.

Care of Shrubs

Receding snows often unmask the stripping of bark of shrubs, such as lilacs, at the snowline. The mechanical action of ice and snow grinds the bark, and often girdles trunks and branches. Shrubs affected should be carefully pruned and fed in early spring to stimulate new growth.

Should Women Propose?

"Of course women should propose. It is the woman to whom falls instant responsibility, all minor details, all the drudgery, and the woman who has to undertake such things should perforce be allowed to propose to the man for whom she feels she can do this."—Mrs. Alec Tweedle.

SHORT STORY

One Against Three

By Richard H. Wilkinson

JIM Orson had ridden 200 miles on horseback to commit murder. Slouched in his saddle, one hand resting carelessly on his thigh near the butt of the six shooter, he watched from beneath the brim of his hat as the boy came toward him.

"This Marc Newell's place?" he asked.

The boy nodded. "My brother will be back any minute. I'm Dave Newell. Are you Mr. Dumont, the cattle buyer?"

Without changing his expression Jim Orson said: "Yeah, I'm him."

"We've been expectin' you. Come on inside and wait. It's cooler."

"I noticed," Orson remarked, "that you had a rifle in your hands when you first opened the door. Expectin' trouble?"

The boy's face clouded. "I was afraid it might be Jules Snyder. He's promised to get Marc."

"Why is he out to get your brother?"

The boy hesitated. "Because Marc quit his gang. Marc used to hang around with the Snyder bunch, but when they began rustlin' and killin', he quit 'em."

"Right after Marc quit, a man named Tom Orson was shot and Jules let it out that Marc done it. The story spread an' nobody dared deny it because they're afraid of Snyder."

Jim Orson thought: "The boy's lying. He's like his brother—a liar and a killer. It was Marc Newell who killed Tom, and it's Marc Newell I'm going to settle with for the crime."

"You'll like my brother," Dave was saying. "He's swell. He—"

Faintly the sound of hoofbeats came to them. Dave set down the pan of potatoes and scurried to a window, turned back into the room, white-faced. Without a word he snatched up the Winchester rifle.

THREE men had drawn rein before the gate. Halfway down the walk Dave was facing them defiantly.

"You git out of here, Jules Snyder!"

The leader of the trio, obviously Snyder, said placatingly: "Put down the gun, kid. We only want to have a talk with your brother."

"You want to kill him?" the boy cried shrilly. "I ain't gonna let you. Marc never done nothin' to you."

Behind Jules Snyder one of the riders had drawn his gun. It was one against three, a boy against a trio of killers.

Jim Orson stepped through the kitchen door. His hand was on his gun.

"ALL RIGHT," he said. "This makes it more even. I'm backing the kid's play."

Snyder's eyes bulged. "Who the devil are you?"

"I'm Orson, Jim Orson. Brother of the man you killed, Snyder!"

Snyder's reaction was a dead giveaway.

The man who had drawn his gun suddenly levelled it. Orson's hand whipped to his hip and he shot at the exact moment lead spurted from the horseman's six-shooter.

Indians in Peru Are Addicted to Cocaine

LIMA, Peru—In this country, four million Indians are succumbing to the influence of cocaine. They wear, attached to their waists, a coarse bag which contains a pound or more of erythroxylon coca. They also carry a small gourd containing cactus ash or limestone, which, mixed with coca leaves in the mouth, facilitates the release of the alkaloid cocaine during mastication.

They chew the leaf three times a day. The chewing is known as the "chachacha," and a complete "chachacha" lasts about 30 minutes.

Moderate doses temporarily augment bodily and mental power. Formerly it was believed that the Indians, driven further and further into the mountains by Spanish invaders, were only able to live at fabulous altitudes by means of this stimulant.

The coca habit keeps the Andean Indians at the mercy of the whites. The laborers in the coca plantations are virtually slaves, and the owners have a vested interest in their continued subjection. The state, moreover, draws a considerable revenue from the distribution of the drug.

The opponents of this traffic are stigmatized as agitators. Communists, enemies not only of the landowners and the ruling classes, but of the state as well.

Spectator's Throng To See Baby's Birth

NEW YORK—Little Mary Theresa Costello made her appearance in this world with the cheers of 100 spectators ringing in her ears.

Mrs. Gwendolyn Costello, and her husband, Daniel, were rubbing in the family car to a hospital from their home in Long Island City when suddenly Mrs. Costello cried: "Stop the car!"

Mr. Costello did. Then he honked his horn furiously to attract attention, shouting, "help! my wife's having a baby! Get a doctor."

By coincidence, the family physician, Dr. Vincent Panvini of Elmhurst, drove by just then. He ran over and ordered the anxious papa-to-be to hop into a nearby diner and get hot water. A few seconds later Mr. Costello was back, with Gloria Halka, a waitress, carrying a container of boiling water.

By that time, an estimated 100 onlookers had gathered around the car. They maintained a dead silence while Dr. Panvini worked. Then, when Mary made her entrance into this world, they broke out into a spontaneous cheer.

Even the new papa stopped pacing up and down, and joined in.

Beauty Spurns Prince And Sends Him Away

HATTIEBURG, Miss.—This is almost a fairy story—one of those beauty-wins-prince creations.

The prince is Abdullah Al Faisal Al Saud of Saudi Arabia, grandson of King Abdul Aziz Abdun Rahman Al Faisal. The beauty is Miss Carla Ann Cox of Hattiesburg, winner in a recent Hattiesburg beauty contest.

Both were visiting in New Orleans. They met and talked.

The prince asked Carla to go to Arabia with him but she spurned his proposal. However, before bidding him good-by, she consented to give him her address.

Several days later she received a present from the prince. It was a bride doll—almost as big as a five-year-old child.

There the story ends—except that Carla was delighted. Carla is five, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cox Jr., and winner of a tiny-toy bathing beauty contest.

Active Life Defeats Cancer, Woman Says

COLUMBUS, O.—A determined Columbus woman believes that you can beat cancer if you don't give in. Her life proves it. She is publishing a book on how she lived with cancer, organizing a national dog club, and taking care of four youngsters in her spare time.

Mrs. Edna Kaehle, 42, listened to the doctors' ominous pronouncement in 1946. Then she set out to prove they were wrong.

The attractive brunette admits she had had no treatment for four years. That long ago, she was down to 90 pounds. Today she still has cancer of the stomach, which the doctor tells her is malignant. But she no longer feels she is living on the brink of death. And her energy confounds more modest women.

In her book, she will tell how she fought through—with faith, and the moral support of her sister and 15-year-old daughter, Sharon.

Her theory is that the body just naturally wants to resist any foreign invasion, whether it's cancer, die of fright. They just give up.

Mrs. Kaehle admits many doctors contradict the theory she advances in her book, but adds: "The very fact that I'm here talking to you is proof that there is some truth to them. Maybe I'm an exception, but my faith carried me through, and there's no reason why it won't do the same for others, if they just don't give up at the mention of the word cancer."

PRICE OF CULTURE

He liked showing off, and seized the occasion of dining with some friends at a restaurant.

"Waitah," he called in a swaggering voice, "bring me some verulam and ova."

About fifteen minutes later the waiter returned with a plate of bacon and eggs.

"Bacon and eggs, sir," he exclaimed. "In ordinary English it would be a shilling, but in classical language it costs half a crown. Let the punishment fit the crime," as we used to say at Oxford. Anything else, sir?"

NO CURE FOR FOOL

An English M.P. was once accosted by a distinctly drunk Irishman in the lobby of the House of Commons.

"Sir," said the Irishman: "You're a fool." "Sir," retorted the Englishman, "You're drunk." "I may be," replied the Irishman, "but I'll be sober tomorrow, and you'll still be a fool."

Can't Wait

"Bobble," said Mrs. Tooter to her young offspring, "Daddy and I have arranged that he shall give you a dime every time he is caught swearing."

"Gee, that's great," cried the youngster. "When is he going to fix the car?"

Revenge

A little boy with a terrible toothache went to the dentist to have the bad tooth pulled out. When the painful operation was over he asked the dentist to let him have the tooth.

"What do you want the tooth for?" asked the dentist. "I am going to take it home, fill it with sugar and watch the darn thing ache."

Change Demanded

"Mama, I want a dark breakfast."

"Dark breakfast? What do you mean, child?"

"Why, last night you told Mary to give me a light supper, and I didn't like it."

They Never Move

Father (reprovingly): "Do you know what happens to liars when they die?"

Johnny: "Yes, sir; they lie still."

FIRST AID

A professor was teaching a medical class. He explained the use of the tourniquet in stopping the flow of blood, and showed how the pressure should be applied between the cut and the heart.

"What would you do in case a man had a brain hemorrhage?" continued the professor.

"I'd put a tourniquet on his neck!" was the bright reply of one of the students.

THEY SAVE MONEY

Mother (to Bobby who has been fibbing): "Do you know what happens to little boys who tell lies?"

Bobby: "Yes. They ride for half fare."

Experience Counts

"Yesir, as soon as we married, my wife fired my secretary."

"Why, I thought she used to be a secretary, herself."

"Yes, that's why she fired her."

He Should Shave

Schroeder Shoe Shop...

 but remained on the scene most of the forenoon searching for sparks in the walls.

Everything was destroyed in the shoe shop and most of the furnishing of the dining and living room of the Schroeders in the back part of the first floor. Their sleeping quarters were on the second floor.

Mr. Schroeder and his two children were at St. Peter's church when the fire broke out. Mrs. Schroeder is in Illinois Research hospital, Chicago, in a serious condition and Mr. Schroeder went to her bedside after the fire leaving the children with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cermak, Jr. Living quarters are being sought for them.

The Jorgensens are with his parents until a home can be re-established.

The building, erected following a fire in 1903 is owned jointly by Mrs. Ida Osmond, her son, Lester, and daughter, Mrs. John Horan. The walls are still good and very little of the flooring of the second floor was damaged. The loss is covered by insurance.

All Had Insurance
 Also covered by insurance are the contents of the shoe store and the household belongings of the Jorgensens, and the stock of the Olsen furniture company. Insurance adjusters were here yesterday estimating the damage.

Olsen had much stock in storage preparing for a special sale. The damaged stock will be returned to the manufacturer and new stock obtained. The owner said there would be no fire sale.

Much sympathy was expressed about the village over the misfortune of the Schroeders. First, Mrs. Schroeder was hurt in an automobile accident, and next she suffered a brain tumor. She has been responding to treatment at a Chicago hospital.

Bartolani said his knuckles were cut when he smashed the glass of the Jorgensen apartment.

Canned Shrimp
 Canned shrimp are improved if soaked in ice water for one hour.

New Planes

Successor to the Army's L-17 plane is the L-20, which carries a pilot and six passengers; a pilot, three litter patients and a medical attendant, or a pilot and about 1,600 pounds of cargo. The L-20 is known as the "Beaver." Another new plane is the twin-engine L-23, which carries one pilot and five passengers or the equivalent in cargo and has a safety feature which permits emergency operation on only one of its engines.

Penny Ante

Far more cents are struck than other coins. In 1950, more than 725,000,000 were manufactured in U.S. mints at Philadelphia, San Francisco, and Denver. The figure was more than three times the total of nickels, dimes, quarters and fifty-cent pieces.
